U. S. Says Police Winked at House of Karpis' Wife

Government Charges Mrs. Goldstein Ran With Police's Consent

SEVEN PERSONS TRIED

Hot Springs Drama Unfolding in Federal Court at Little Rock

LITTLE ROCK—(AP)—Seeking to convict seven Hot Springs residents on a charge of conspiring to harbor Alvin Karpis in 1935-36, the government Thursday attempted to establish Mrs. Grace Goldstein, common-law wife of the gangster and one of the defendants, as an operator of respectable houses run with the knowledge of the police.

LITTLE ROCK—(AP)—The Alvin Karpis harboring conspiracy trial being held before a petit jury in United States District Court, appeared Wednesday to be headed for a session that may last as much as two weeks.

Beginning testimony, the government took over the entire second day of the trial in an effort to lay the groundwork for proof that three former Hot Springs police officers—Chief of Detectives Herbert (Dutch) Akers, Police Chief Joseph Winkeln and Lieutenant Cecil Brock—knew that a warrant had been issued for the arrest of Karpis, then Public Enemy No. 1, on a federal indictment charging him with assisting in the kidnaping of Edward G. Bremer at Minneapolis in January, 1934.

United States Attorney Fred A. Isgrig introduced 17 witnesses, including nine newspaper carriers, and read quotations from 57 articles published in Hot Springs newspapers from March 23, 1934 to February 23, 1936 in support of the government's contention that the Hot Springs officers under indictment knew who Karpis and his mobsters were.

"To Confuse Record"
Defense lawyers objected repeatedly to reading of the articles, claiming they were mere "hearsay" and that they were irrelevant and that their purpose was to confuse the records and delay the trial.

In answer to the latter allegation, Mr. Isgrig replied:

"It has taken the government about two years to work up this case. We cannot do this task quickly as much as I would like to do so."

The newspaper carriers who were summoned to testify that several of the seven defendants received daily newspapers in which articles relating to Karpis and his gangsters appeared, were examined by the district attorney until 10 a. m. Monday, after testimony, indicating the trial would extend into next week.

Additional Charges
At completion of the conspiracy trial, it is expected the government will take up separate charges against Akers and Grace Goldstein, operator of a Hot Springs hotel who has been described as Karpis' common law wife.

Akers also is charged with conspiracy to harbor Thomas Nathan Morris, member of the notorious "Alfred 'Sonny' Lane" gang which was rounded up in Arkansas in September, 1937. Mrs. Goldstein is facing an indictment charging her with violation of the Mann act by bringing a girl from Blossom, Texas, to Hot Springs in 1935 for immoral purposes. A five-year prison sentence is possible upon conviction on a Mann act charge.

Nearly all the afternoon session was occupied with reading of the newspaper articles. The large crowd that has packed the courtroom since beginning the trial began to thin during the latter stages of the reading as Mrs. Isgrig recited the various movements of the notorious Barker-Karpis gang in the height of its activity.

COLLEGE GAME AT 8

Special Train Chartered for Nashville Game

Will Leave Hope at 6:15 p. m. Friday; Round-Trip Is 55c

With Guarantee of 400 Tickets, Fans Urged to Ride Special

GAME-TIME IS 8 P. M.

Bobcats and Scrappers to Be Near Tom Form for Battle

By LEONARD ELLIS

Arrangements were completed at 2:15 o'clock Thursday afternoon for a special train to Nashville Friday night where the Bobcats and Scrappers battle in their annual game.

The train of seven coaches will carry the team, band, student body and fans.

The special will leave the Missouri Pacific station at 6:15 o'clock and is due to arrive in Nashville at 7:05. The game starts at 8 o'clock.

Round-trip fare will be 55 cents. The railroad required a guarantee of 400 round-trip tickets, and all Hope fans are urged to ride the train.

The band mothers are expected to occupy the front coach to serve sandwiches and soft drinks. The train will stop about two blocks from the Nashville football stadium.

The train will return to Hope immediately following the game.

Teams to Be in Shape

Coach Roy Hammons said at noon Thursday that only one injury bothered the squad as it prepared for the final workout Thursday afternoon.

The team will again take up pass defense in an effort to halt the overhead game of the Scrappers, their most dangerous scoring weapon.

Reports from Nashville indicate that the Scrappers will be in top form. Fans there have dedicated Friday as "Bo Sherman Night" in appreciation of the showing of the team this season. Homecoming festivities and the crowning of a queen is also planned.

As to the final outcome of the game, we wish Hope the winner after a hard battle.

In the Conference

In the Arkansas high school conference this week-end, five conference teams will find themselves facing either other with the undefeated and untied records of three teams at stake.

The Fort Smith Grizzlies, held to the last week by North Little Rock, will go to Little Rock for a conference battle with Coach Clyde Van Sickle's Tigers.

We look for the Grizzlies to put up a hard battle, but forecast the Tigers will be on top by two touchdowns at the finish.

North Little Rock, tied by Blytheville, Forrest City and Fort Smith on three consecutive week-ends, should get back into the win column with a 27 to 0 victory over Searey at the Wildcat stadium.

El Dorado will entertain the undefeated and untied Pine Bluff Zebras at El Dorado. We look for a hard scrap with Pine Bluff, of course, the winner, 19 to 0.

The Camden Panthers will be at home against a tough Malvern team. The Panthers, 7 to 0.

Hot Springs will tie up with Fordyce in the Redbug stadium, and it looks like the Trojans by three touchdowns.

Russellville invades Benton in another conference battle. Benton is undefeated and untied and we see no reason why the Panthers shouldn't keep their record intact.

Blytheville will be at home for the first time in several weeks against Clarksville. Blytheville by six touchdowns.

Forrest City goes to Paragould Friday night for a battle with Coach Jack Dale's Bulldogs. Forrest City should win by at least three touchdowns.

Augusta at Jonesboro. Augusta has our sympathy.

Automobiles Wanted at Station at 7 p. m.

All Hope citizens having automobiles at their disposal are asked to co-operate with the Young Business Men's association in helping to transport the city's guests from the Missouri Pacific depot to the football stadium Thursday night.

Owners are requested to line up their cars along the station platform at 7 o'clock sharp Thursday night.

The Henderson college football special train will arrive here from Arkadelphia, at 6:45 o'clock, giving a leeway of 15 minutes before automobiles begin to take them on the one-mile drive to the stadium.

The Henderson football team will be taken to the stadium in the first fleet of cars, leaving Capital hotel at 7 o'clock sharp, with the fans being moved immediately afterward.

Capital hotel will be football headquarters, and Andrew (Speedy) Hutson will be on the depot platform to give auto drivers their instructions and to assign fans to cars.

Atkins Is Elected President YBMA

Max Walker Is Chosen Treasurer, and Plans Discussed for New Year

W. S. Atkins was elected president of the Young Business Men's association, succeeding Roy Stephenson, at the annual election meeting Wednesday night at Hope city hall. The vote was unanimous.

Max Walker was chosen treasurer, the meeting drawing a crowd that nearly filled the city hall council room.

After hearing various civic and territorial plans discussed for the coming year Mr. Atkins pledged his best efforts to the association, and said he would complete its committee personnel within a day or two.

The Young Business Men completed plans for the handling of the crowd at Thursday night's football game here between Henderson State and Louisiana Northeast Center of Monroe, La.

It was also voted to tender the football team their annual banquet next Thursday night, October 27, on the eve of the game here against the Camden Panthers, which is Friday, October 28.

Jerusalem Siege Ends; British Win

Troops Drive Out Arabs, Restore Order to Old City Section

JERUSALEM, Palestine—(AP)—Approximately 1,000 British Coldstream Guards marched into the old city of Jerusalem at dawn Wednesday and delivered the district from the hands of Arab rebels who had held it for four days.

The British troops entered the old city through the Damascus gate and were met by a strong fusillade of rebel fire.

Within a few hours the troops had subdued the Arabs without loss of a British life. At least nine Arabs were killed, and 40 taken prisoner. Two British constables were wounded.

The British established law and order in the old city which they had laid siege without attempting, until Wednesday to enter. Silence hung over the quarter as the guards patrolled the streets.

The Christian and Jewish population showed intense relief as the stalwart troops marched through the narrow deserted streets to the Mosque of Omar area, which they cordoned off. Troops and police then began a methodical house-to-house search of the district between the mosque and the old city walls. As each section was cleared the inhabitants were allowed to circulate in the streets of the old city, but were not permitted to leave its precincts.

The changing face of central Europe posed a knotty problem for Germany Thursday while two of the world's three war fronts—Spain and Palestine—were relatively calm. The third front, China, moved toward a new crisis.

Germany, optimistically confident of the necessity of arranging the dismemberment of Czechoslovakia without alienating any of three friends whose interests conflict.

Poland and Hungary, closely allied with Germany, want a common border by the cession to Hungary of areas of autonomous Ruthenia and Slovakia.

Czechoslovakia, who now pins her hope for future peace and prosperity on Berlin, wants to keep what she has left.

Swiftly-striking Japanese forces were reported to be threatening the next line of defenses for Hankow, provisional capital of China, in a drive up both banks of the Yangtze river from 50 miles east. Evacuation of the civilian population of the Hankow area is being accelerated.

In South China, another Japanese army drove forward in a hurried effort to reach Canton, main Southern metropolis, but was believed to be heading into a strong Chinese defense line.

Expect Big Crowd to See Henderson, Northeast Center

Henderson, Hope Bands to Parade Downtown at 7 o'clock

REDDIES EXPECT WIN

Louisiana Quarterback Is Only Injured Player on Either Team

Hope's first college football game in several years will be fought here at 8 o'clock Thursday night when the Henderson State Teachers team of Arkadelphia takes the field against LSU Northeast Center of Monroe, La.

The game is expected to attract several thousand persons, many coming here from surrounding towns. A special train from Arkadelphia will bring the student body and band to Hope. The train will arrive at 6:45 o'clock, and will be followed by a parade downtown by the Henderson band and the Hope High School band.

The two teams will arrive here earlier in the day, the Henderson squad of some 40 players being scheduled to move into Hope shortly after the noon hour. The LSU Northeast Center team is expected here about 2 p. m. and will put up at a local hotel until game time.

Hope fans having automobiles are urged to provide transportation to the field. Drive downtown enroute to the game and provide a ride to the many out-of-town visitors and students who will come here on trains.

A few desirable box seats remain for sale at Webb's Newsstand. They will remain on sale until 6 o'clock and then will be sold at the field.

Officials will be Alvin Bell, referee; Foy Hammons, umpire; Bill Brasher, headlinesman; Earl O'Neal, field judge.

Reddies Expect Victory
ARADELPHIA, Ark.—Coach Lloyd (Dob) Grow Thursday said he expected to take a squad of 40 players to Hope Thursday night for the game between the Henderson Reddies and the LSU Northeast Center team of Monroe, La. The game will be played under the lights on the Hope High school Bobcats' field, starting at 8 o'clock.

Henderson's team will outweigh the players of Coach Jim Malone both in the line and the backfield, according to figures submitted by the rival tutors.

The Reddies will take the field as a powerful team and there is a feeling among the fans here they will come out with the big end of the score.

A special train carrying the band and Henderson students and Arkadelphia fans will leave here at 3:45 o'clock Thursday afternoon and will arrive in Hope an hour later.

Indians Leave Monroe
MONROE, La.—Northeast Center of LSU Indians went through their final preparation Wednesday afternoon for the Henderson State football game in Hope Thursday night.

Coach Jim Malone's Indians will be handicapped without the services of Ed Walker, who was injured in last week's game. Walker will not be in uniform for the game. He will be replaced at quarterback by Semago, 180-pounder.

The team left here at 7:30 o'clock Thursday morning and is due to arrive in Hope at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon, and will put up at a Hope hotel until game time.

Several hundred local fans are planning to attend the game.

If Fascism Comes, It Won't Be From Afar

Having examined the ways by which the Communists are trying to extend their influence in America, the Dies committee now takes up the matter of Fascism; and here, too, it uncovers "plots" which will doubtless worry quite as many people as were worried by the revelations about the Communists—although they will probably be a different set of people.

True it is that the committee seems to have shown that Fascist agents are active in this country. Things have been done, under cover, which stem directly from Berlin and Rome. Soberly listed, they have an extremely unpleasant sound.

Yet one hardly needs to be a professional optimist to suspect that all of the activities of these foreign agents add up to very little as far as the future of our republic is concerned.

Fascism may be a dark cloud on our horizon; but if we ever do get Fascism in this country, we shan't get it because of the bought-and-paid-for machinations of any foreign agents. It will be a home-grown product. More than that, it will place tremendous emphasis on its pure and unsullied Americanism.

Huey Long once remarked that America probably would have Fascism some day; but he added, "when we get it we won't call it Fascism—we'll call it anti-Fascism." And Huey's wise-crack is much more worth remembering than are the revelations of the Dies committee.

If we ever do get a serious Fascist movement in this country, no taint of German or Italian gold will be visible in it. Instead it will be a 100-per-cent-American move to "save the American way of life." It will mention the Constitution, stress patriotism, and voice a furious distrust of foreigners. It will almost certainly clamor for a bigger army and navy. It is quite likely that, as Huey predicted, it will actually present itself under the guise of an anti-Fascist movement.

All of that will be window dressing. Down underneath will be the meat of the thing. For while it gives lip service to democracy and democracy's institutions, it will insist that there is at hand a crisis which demands stern and drastic action. It will ask for centralized power in the hands of one man. It will pretend at the same time to be very radical and left-wingish, but its promises to the common man will be extremely vague and general.

Some such person as that is what we may expect a real Fascist movement in this country to follow.

A few of its characteristics have already appeared, but they haven't made much headway, and there doesn't seem to be much reason to expect that things will be much different in the future.

But we might as well remember what the stigma are. It will at least keep us from worrying about the disclosures of the Dies committee.

Let Child Follow a "Cause," For His Idealism Needs It—Don't Fret Mother, He'll Come Back to You

Paradoxical as it sounds, there is a time in every child's young life when mothers may keep a child by losing him.

This time is during the early years of development, from twelve to fourteen.

I have explained the sensitive children sometimes draw away from close family relationships now. They seem to want to find themselves and work out their plans without much interference from parents. Maybe they feel that the old basis of "dependent child" is beneath their bulging dignity. Maybe they want to be led, but led painlessly, without the hampering strings of personal discipline.

They take to general orders much better at times than precise ones made purely for their benefit. Intensely idealistic, they love a cause. To this they can be more than faithful.

By losing this young person, I mean, therefore, that he needs to follow someone very strong and fine who understands the value of impersonal standards, such as a camp leader or the leader of any group intended to raise the spirit of good sportsmanship and self-reliance.

We have all seen the boy (or girl) who would not stir himself at home, work frantically for a group headed by such a person, man or woman. Mothers wonder at the miracle and sigh with discouragement when this happens. They feel that a stranger has accomplished what they have failed to do.

It is a mistake to be downhearted about this. The whole process is as natural as breathing. Such a child is not less devoted. He is merely trying his wagon to a new star and temporarily taking a flier from the home nest. He feels that he can be freer to work out his noble instincts away from the same old eye and away from the same old routine. In short, he is not too anxious to be noble at all, except in company and among his own colleagues.

Organizations Help

The Boy Scouts, the Girl Scouts, and all organizations patterned on them naturally study groups; hiking clubs; school orchestras; sports teams; hobby classes and so on without end, providing such essential outlets for the adolescent. In every case the head should be a person of wide understanding who sees the need of character building and uses the activity engaged in as a means to this end.

Interest, as always, is the medium through which the heart is reached. The boy or girl will not only be enthusiastic about his group but he will make a sort of hero of his leader. It is wholesome and healthy. Don't be jealous, mother.

Once before I wrote something like this. "Don't allow clubs and outside interests to steal your child. He is yours. Keep him at home some time." I never meant lat more than I do now. One or two interests at this time are enough. Home ties must be prepared at all costs. Interest in his home and responsibility to it is the real goal, after all.

Feed them well, these intense children. Do invent ways to hold interest right at home. Make home a center, a place they want to come to. Show co-operation in their affairs. Hold right on. You won't lose your child, but gain him.

Dust Storms' Effects on the Health Disclosed in State Report

Repeatedly people write me to find out whether or not the dust storms which spread over the southwestern portions of the United States in recent years have done immense damage to health.

There are said to be two new diseases called dust pneumonia and dust asthma. It has been said that the dust interferes with childbirth, that the children when born die young, and that wild animals and birds have disappeared from the so-called dust bowl area.

Now Dr. J. A. Blue, who is director of the Pan-Handle district of the Oklahoma State Health Department, has reported the results of his investigations of health in the dust bowl area. These will probably serve to disprove much of the wild rumor that has been circulated about health conditions.

Fifty-six people who lived in the dust bowl area were carefully examined. All of them said that the dust storms caused a type of mental depression and worry which ranged from a mild to severe condition.

Fourteen per cent of the people stated that they had no symptoms whatever during the dusty season; 25 per cent felt that the dust exaggerated their usual illnesses; nine per cent had diseases of which certain symptoms seemed to be due to the dust; 62 per cent said that they had a tightness of the chest during the severe dust storms, and 80 per cent had coughing for a day or two during the storms, and spit up dusty material for several days after.

Very few seemed to suffer from chills or fever, but practically all had irritation of the throat, irritation of the nose, and nose bleeds. The physical examinations also showed that the eyes had been irritated by the dust.

In very few instances was there any sign that the lungs had become inflamed or infected, although some of the patients did have such symptoms. The records for the state of Kansas for 1935 showed a definite increase, however, in the death rate from respiratory infections in the dust bowl area as compared with the state as a whole.

In the Oklahoma Pan-Handle District the number of deaths from influenza and pneumonia were lower than in the rest of the state, although there were more severe dust storms and longer ones in the Pan-Handle District than elsewhere. Thus the dust does not seem to be a predicting factor in pneumonia.

Doctor Blue is convinced, however, that the dust storms have an unfavorable effect on health in general.

The Yerger High School Tigers, coached by Rainey Hill, will meet a negro football team from Camden on the Yerger field here at 3 o'clock Friday afternoon. Both teams are undefeated and a hard-fought battle is expected.

Hope defeated Prescott last week, 32 to 0.

SERIAL STORY MURDER TO MUSIC BY NARD JONES

CAST OF CHARACTERS

MYRTLE A. DOMBEY—heroine, wife of the sensational swing band leader.

ROBERT TAIT—hero, newspaper photographer—detective.

ALICE LESTER—Myrna's closest friend.

DANNIE FEELY—officer assigned to investigate Ludden Dombey's murder.

Yesterday, Dombey is found badly in debt. Tait offers to buy out Macy's $1000 share in the band, but Macy refuses. Could it have been that he wanted a club over Myrna?

CHAPTER XVI

HAD not the Swingers been in such a precarious spot, Tait would willingly have paid Leonard Macy $5000 for his interest. But at the moment it was an impossibility; and he had the added feeling that, even if Macy were offered that amount he would refuse.

Tait wished that he knew more about the circumstances under which the share had been purchased. But the only man who had that information was Harris Rogers, and Tait had no desire to encounter him now.

It was a disconsolate and bewildered Bob Tait who returned to his own room from Leonard Macy's luxurious apartment, the certified check still in his pocket. As he opened the door, he heard his telephone ringing furiously. Tait hurried to take it up.

"Robert Tait?" He did not recognize the voice.

"Yes, this is Tait."

"I have some interesting information about the Ludden Dombey murder."

Tait hesitated. "Why don't you notify Feely down at police headquarters?"

"I can't do that, for reasons I haven't explained over the telephone."

"Then come up here. I'll be glad to see you."

"I can't do that, either. If you want to hear what I have to say, you'll have to come to my address."

***

It sounded like a trick, and Tait was instantly aware of it. Yet he couldn't afford to pass up any bet. "All right," he said, "let me have your address. I'll come right over." The man gave an address which Tait recognized as on the very edge of town, in a district once a factory area. "Are you sure of that address?" he asked. "I didn't know there were any residences there."

An unpleasant laugh answered him. "I can't be choosy about where I live. I've got a room on the top floor of what used to be a raincoat factory. Don't come unless you want to. It's all up to you."

"I'll be there."

He replaced the receiver, and stared at the wall. He kept thinking of Harris Rogers and his threat. Then he rushed the notion aside. Perhaps this was the very musician that Dannie Feely had been hunting for days. It was certainly logical that George K. Weeks had retrogressed from that gray lodging house to a top floor of an abandoned raincoat factory.

Tait went to his bureau, took out a small revolver and slipped it into his pocket. Then he telephoned for a taxi, and went down to the curb to wait for it.

The address puzzled even the taxi driver. "Say, that's a new one on me, brother. Sure you got the right address?"

"I think so. Remember the old Millway addition, where all those red factory buildings are?"

"Oh . . . yeah, I remember that. There ain't anything doing in that part of town now."

Tait grinned. "There may be tonight. Let's go."

The driver snapped down the metal flag and started the cab. "It's okay with me," he said. "It was a fairly long drive to the Millway addition, but then began the more tedious job of finding the street and number which Tait had received over the telephone. Finally they found the street, a small dead-end affair. "Well," muttered the driver. "We can't go wrong on a dinky street like this."

"I hope you're right," said Tait. "Isn't that a light on the top floor of that building down there? The fellow I'm to see lives on the top floor of one of these old factory buildings."

"It's either a light or a reflection from the moon." The driver piloted toward the curb. "I'll take a look at the number on the door. If there is one. Twenty-seven Thirty, you said it was."

BEFORE Tait could think to restrain him, the driver had jumped out of the car and into the night. He saw him cross the sidewalk, strike a match on the side of the doorway. The match flared for a scant moment, then went out. Suddenly Tait heard a yell and the sound of a body falling hard to the pavement.

He yanked his revolver from his pocket and started across the sidewalk. As he neared the building he caught the scent of a faint perfume, hauntingly familiar.

"Where are you?" he called to the driver.

There was a groan almost at his feet. Before kneeling down, Tait tried to peer into the darkness of the street. "What's wrong? What happened?"

"Somebody—somebody took a whack at me with a knife," the driver gasped. "It came out of that doorway. I—I saw the flash of it just as I struck the match."

Squatted down beside the wounded man, Tait turned warily on his feet. Gradually his eyes became accustomed to the darkness. He was literally afraid to move, but now he began to see the outlines of the doorway. It was empty. He had seen no one go up or down the street, and they must certainly have gone through that door.

He got up, approached it gingerly. Swiftly he kicked it open with one foot and sprang back, his weapon ready. Nothing opened to his gaze but a dimly-lit stairway. "Listen," Tait turned to the luckless driver. "Are you badly hurt? If I get you to the car can you stand it a while?"

"I think it's my shoulder and arm—but you ain't going in there, are you?"

"I want to take a look up that stairway. I'll just be a minute—and then I'll drive you to a hospital pronto."

"You go up that stairway and I'll never get to a hospital, and neither will you. It'll be the morgue."

TAIT got one of the man's arms around his shoulders. "Come on. I'll get you onto the back seat of the cab where you can take it easy."

Against the taximan's feeble protests, Tait managed to get him into the cab. A hurried examination showed that there were two knife slashes, neither very deep. But there was no mistaking that the assailant had meant business. The sudden striking of the match, practically in his face, had probably spoiled his lunge.

"Stay back against the cushions. I won't be a minute," Tait went to the doorway again. The stairway was still clear. He could see to the first landing, and a little beyond. But he could not determine the position of the dim light.

Stealthily, his gun ready, he started up the stair. Again, and stronger now, he caught the odor of perfume. Suddenly he remembered that scent. It had been worn by the honey-colored blond who had walked out of the Claremont. He had almost collided with her the night he had gone into the apartment to see if Anne Lester had found Myrna. It was an odd scent, one that wouldn't be encountered often. What was it doing here, Bob Tait wondered as he took another cautious step upward.

HOGS OF TODAY LEARN TO TAKE THEIR MEDICINE

Gray Summit, Mo.—For many years doctors have advised patients to swallow pills with a glass of water. But it was not until recently that anyone figured out that it would be easier for a hog to take a pill the same way. The ease and naturalness with which the new type of jaw spreader and water gun developed here at the Purina Experimental Farm, works, cuts down the amount of labor and time needed for worming hogs, and does a far more effective job than the old method of forcing the medicine into the animal.

The cost of treating hogs for roundworm by this new method is less than one pound of pork per hog. Unhealthy growth and death losses are cut down, and the feed, instead of going into the nourishment of worms, goes into the building of pork. Pigs can be wormed any time after they have been weaned, although it is NOT advisable to worm diseased hogs or animals that have been vaccinated for cholera within the past three weeks. The sooner pigs are wormed the faster they grow, and the better use they make of feed.

Used With Pigsules

The patented jaw spreader and water gun available at all feed stores selling Purina poultry and livestock feeds is made for use with a special type of piglets containing the ingredients recommended by the United States Department of Agriculture for the removal of roundworms in swine.

On the Purina Experimental Farm this method of worming has been successfully used for several years. Only two men are needed. One person straddles the hog and holds it in a semi-erect position by the front legs. This prevents any chance of the man administering the piglets getting his wrists cut by the hogs' front hoofs. With the hog held in a fairly erect position, the jaw spreader, which is made of a U-shaped prong with two horizontal cross bars about an inch and a quarter apart, is slipped into the hog's jaw and pried down, cycling the animal's mouth open with no danger to the handler of being scratched or bitten.

Pill is Washed Down

The water gun, with the Pigsule inserted in the end, is put into the mouth of the hog, and as soon as the pig stops squealing, the bulb of the water gun is squeezed. The force of the water washes the piglets down the hog's throat and gives him a good drink of water at the same time, so that almost before the hog knows what has happened, he has been treated. By this method the hog is dosed naturally and easily, with a minimum of time and trouble. Usually one worming by this method is enough, but if a few pigs in the lot continue to look rough, a second treatment should be administered.

Giant frog. Some wag painted eyes and mouth on a big roadside boulder, and an alert picture-taker came along and snapped an excellent "oddy" picture. Keep your eyes open for things such as this—they add interest to your album.

DO YOU keep your eyes open for odd and curious things which might be material for an "unusual picture" section in your snapshot album?

Watch for such subjects when you are on a picture-taking jaunt, and you may be surprised at the things you find. Oddly twisted trees that look like old men—a freakish bit of architecture—a wall-shadow that looks like a human face in profile—an unusually realistic scarecrow in a farmer's field—novel cloud forms—all these are candidates for the "unusual picture" collection.

Observe reflections, too. Picture the upside-down reflection of a building in water. Turn the picture right side up, and the water ripples look like heat waves. Extreme angle shots of some subjects, taken with camera pointed straight up or straight down, often produce weird effects. For example, put the camera on the floor at the bottom of a well-lighted circular staircase and take a

Childs Examines Labor, Democracy

Amid much talk of "democracy" as a theoretical ideal or as an elusive abstraction, a book on real, basic democracy at work with its sleeves up is worth reading today. Margus W. Childs, who introduced the Scandinavian countries as the locale of something more vital than fjords ("The Middle Way") has produced the latest result of his study of those countries in "This Is Democracy" (Yale University Press: $2.50).

Democracy is something more than parliamentary government. It is a democratic way of life, social, economic and political. Childs' book has more scope than its subtitle. "Collective Bargaining in Scandinavia" might lead one to think.

It is the place of an organized labor movement in a democratic society that occupies Childs' attention. The labor movement in Scandinavian has risen to power both economic and political, and yet has realized that it must exercise that power with due regard for that welfare not only of its own members but of all elements of society. It is a labor movement that has realized that perhaps its only chance to better the income of its members is to help them increase their production, the world being what it is. ## A Dream Of Autumn

Mellow hazes, lowly trailing
Over wood and meadow, veiling
Sombre hills, with wild fowl sailing
Sailor-like to foreign lands;
And the north wind overleaping
Summer's brink, and flood-like sweeping
Wrecks of roses where the weeping-
Willows wring their helpless hands.
Flared, like Titan torches flinging
Flakes of flame and embers, springing
From the vale, the trees stand swing-
ing
In the moaning atmosphere,
With the sorrow of the year.
Rich as wine the sunset flashes
Round the tilted world, and dashes
Up the sloping West, and splashes
Red foam over sky and sea—
Till my dream of Autumn, polling
In the splendor all-prevailing,
Like a swallow leaf goes sailing
Down the silence solemnly.

A Three Days' Cough Is Your Danger Signal

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your common cough, chest cold, or bronchial irritation, you may get relief now with Creomulsion. Serious trouble may be brewing and you cannot afford to take a chance with any remedy less potent than Creomulsion, which goes right to the seat of the trouble and aids nature to soothe and heal the inflamed mucous membranes and to loosen and expel germ-laden phlegm.

Even if other remedies have failed, don't be discouraged, try Creomulsion. Your druggist is authorized to refund your money if you are not thoroughly satisfied with the benefit obtained. Creomulsion is one word, ask for it plainly, see that the name on the bottle is Creomulsion, and you'll get the genuine product and the relief you want. (Adv.)

The Bay View Reading club held its second meeting of the club year on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. H. Arnold, North Hervey street, with Mrs. D. B. Thompson as joint hostess and Mrs. E. E. White leading a most interesting and informative program on the subject, "Along the Old Trails With Washington." The rooms were bright with colorful fall flowers and 17 members responded to the roll call with some interesting current event. Following the opening routine by Mrs. T. R. Billingsley, vice president, in the absence of the president, Mrs. Hugh Smith, Mrs. V. A. Hammonds read the minutes of the previous meeting. Mrs. White told of the beginning and development of Washington City followed by Mrs. Hugh Jones who gave interesting facts in regard to the national highway leading into Washington along the lines of the old Braddock trail. Miss Mamie Twitchell told of the men living in the time of Washington, who had built and followed the old trails. During the business period, the time of meeting and program for November 2 was exchanged with the program of 16th planning the meeting of the 2nd at the home of Mrs. R. M. Bryant, with Mrs. T. R. Billingsley as joint hostess and Mrs. Arch Moore leading on "The Oregon Trail." During the social hour, the hostesses served an ice course with cake.

Mrs. Wayne England and little son Gene, have returned from a visit with relatives in Horatio and DeQueen.

The regular monthly business and social meet of the Althean class of the First Baptist Sunday school was held on Tuesday evening in the educational building on South Main street, with Mrs. Claude Sutton, Mrs. Frank Douglas and Mrs. W. E. Thrush as hostesses. The Halloween motif was used in the decorations and refreshments. Following the business meeting, games and contests were enjoyed and delicious refreshments were served to 14 members.

Word was received in Hope Thursday of the death of Mrs. Elva Ward Hackett, daughter of C. C. Seaman, former Hope resident. Mrs. Hackett died at her home in Gladewater, Texas.

The body will be brought to Hope for funeral services Friday afternoon from First Methodist church. The funeral hour, although not definitely announced, will probably be 2:30 o'clock.

Surviving are her father and three daughters.

Animals of Adam's Day Will Be Shown

Pictures Reveal Startling Discoveries About the Bible

In his archaeological lectures illustrated with beautifully colored pictures, Dr. John T. Morris, at the First Presbyterian church each evening this week, is revealing startling discoveries about the Bible.

Wednesday night, he presented the pictures of excavations of the ancient city, Ur of the Chaldees, disclosing the fact that scientists have discovered the cradle of civilization to be exactly where the Bible places it—in Mesopotamia, instead of Egypt.

Excavations have unearthed revelations of marvelous civilizations existing hundreds of years before Abraham was born, and scientists make the statements that the farther they go back into ancient civilizations, the greater those civilizations appear.

Of special interest were the pictures of magnificent vessels of gold, golden cups and vases and statues, displaying artistic ability equal to modern times. Thursday night actual photographic pictures of the animals of Adam's day will be shown. Pictures of other mammals of the ancient past will be shown, such as huge building stones, quarried on four sides, which modern machinery cannot move, many of which have been found in walls more than 20 feet above the ground.

Everybody is invited without charge for admission, but a silver offering is expected.

Hitler's Demands Steep for French

French Won't 'Buy' Peace, But Negotiations Are Continued

PARIS, France. (AP)—Chancellor Hitler's repeated request for a guaranty of Franco-German peace appeared too high to France Wednesday.

In preliminary conversations Germany was said here to have offered to guarantee French frontiers against attack if France would return Togo and the Cameroons, former German colonies in West Africa; if France would recognize that Germany should have numerical superiority in war planes and if France would assure Germany a free hand in Central and Eastern Europe and renounce the Franco-Russian mutual assistance pact.

The possibility remained, however, that some kind of an agreement might be reached. English leaders have been urging the French to seek something parallel to the Anglo-German friendship pact initiated at Munich.

In the willingness of both France and Germany to discuss possibilities of a non-aggression pact some Paris observers saw a diplomatic game aimed at Italy—a warning by France that Italy should confine itself to the Mediterranean and a hint by Germany that unless Italy abandoned its support for Hungarian claims, Germany could find a powerful friend in France.

Point Johannes von Welzbeck, German ambassador to France, talked to Georges Bonnet, foreign minister. Andre Francois-Poncet, French ambassador at Berlin, flew to Hitler's Bavarian home, Berchtesgaden. The visit to Bonnet followed a talk of Welzbeck had with Premier Edouard Daladier on returning from Berlin.

Daladier's friends hoped an agreement with Germany would improve his domestic position. He had conversations with the Soviet ambassador, Jacob Surits, presumably as to what effect a Franco-German agreement would have on Franco-Soviet relations.

Great Britain's air defense experts conceived the idea of erecting an "aerial fence" of captive balloons trailing long grids of steel cables as a barrier to enemy bombing planes. The theory was that the invaders would run into the trailing cables or, if they flew over the "fence" they would be forced above good bombing range. In a recent demonstration five of the balloons, shown in the photo above, broke away and caused considerable damage to London houses with their trailing cables before they were recaptured. Nevertheless, the experts declared the experiment a success.

Big Circus on Saturday

Hally Hall, one of the army of funsters that's coming to Hope with the big circus on Saturday, October 22 is telling his friend "Queenie" that circus day in "Hope" is going to be a gala occasion for all the youngsters and oldsters.

The circus city will be located on the Pond street show grounds, there will be two performances at 2 and 8 p. m. rain or shine, with the main entrance opening precisely one hour earlier to afford all ample time to leisurely inspect the mammoth double zoological arenas in which over 400 furred and feathered creatures are on display. There are 785 people in the mammoth portable city, with over 500 performers, 128 performing horses, 3 troupes of performing seals and sea lions—besides four big herds of trained elephants will all be in Hope, in the largest and only big show coming this year.

Brave Pilot Saves 13 in Fiery Plane

Eastern Airliner Lands Safely, None But Pilot Is Injured

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—Pilot Dave Hissong rested in seclusion Wednesday while the 13 persons he steered to safety in a crippled, blazing airplane praised his skill and courage.

At his home in Atlanta, Hissong who, with fire flicking at his head and hands, one motor gone and a wing kicking into the air, mushed his big Eastern airliner down in a dark clearing near here last night to save 14 lives, shrugged off the role of hero.

The twin-motored Houston-to-New York plane got into trouble near midnight just after the take-off from its Montgomery stop. Hissong said the right motor began to vibrate, then suddenly burst into flames and fell out. Co-pilot Russell cut the gasoline and wielded a fire extinguisher, as the lighted right wing flung upward.

Steward Gibbs made sure that the 11 passengers had their safety belts tight. Hissong eased the burning craft down from a 1,400-foot altitude into a clearing.

"There wasn't much we could do but wrestle with it," he said. "When we hit, the whole side was afire."

A moment after the occupants hurried out there was an explosion and the whole ship was a mass of fire. Hissong said a damaged propeller probably caused the motor vibration in such a way as to start the fire.

Eligibility Rules Change Is Sought

AAA May Change Regulations at November Board Meeting

LITTLE ROCK—Sweeping changes in the eligibility regulations of the Arkansas Athletic Association will be sought at the meeting of the Board of Governors of the organization at West Side Junior High School November 4, President L. M. Goza of Arkadelphia, announced Wednesday night.

Mr. Goza said that many of the state's educators believe that changes are necessary to reduce the number of injuries and to return athletics to a "play for fun" basis. He predicted that among the proposals to be offered will be reducing the age limit, barring from athletics boys who have moved from one community to another and setting up restrictions to make contests less strenuous.

Sweeping Changes Proposed
One proposal would end an athlete's eligibility with his 20th birthday instead of his 21st, as at present. Age limit for junior high school competition was reduced from 18 to 17, last year.

Semester rules, like those of the Southwest conference are being advocated for A. A. A. member schools. The changes would make a player ineligible for inter-school athletics after he has attended a four-year high school for eight semesters, or a senior high school for six semesters. Attendance of 15 days would be regarded as a semester.

Another change would make athletes of other states who are ineligible under the regulations of their state association ineligible in Arkansas, if they remove here. Athletic officials said several athletes from Louisiana and Texas who were ineligible in those states had entered Arkansas schools and had made outstanding athletic records.

In Texas the age limit is 18 and there has been talk that some Arkansas coaches have built up their football teams by recruiting Texas boys who had proved their ability on the gridiron but who had passed their 18th birthdays.

Would Revise Basketball
Proposals to lessen the physical strain on athletes were directed at both junior and senior high school basketball.

The changes would make only first-place winners of each district eligible for the state tournament, instead of the first and second-place winners. All district and state tournaments would be run off on a single elimination basis.

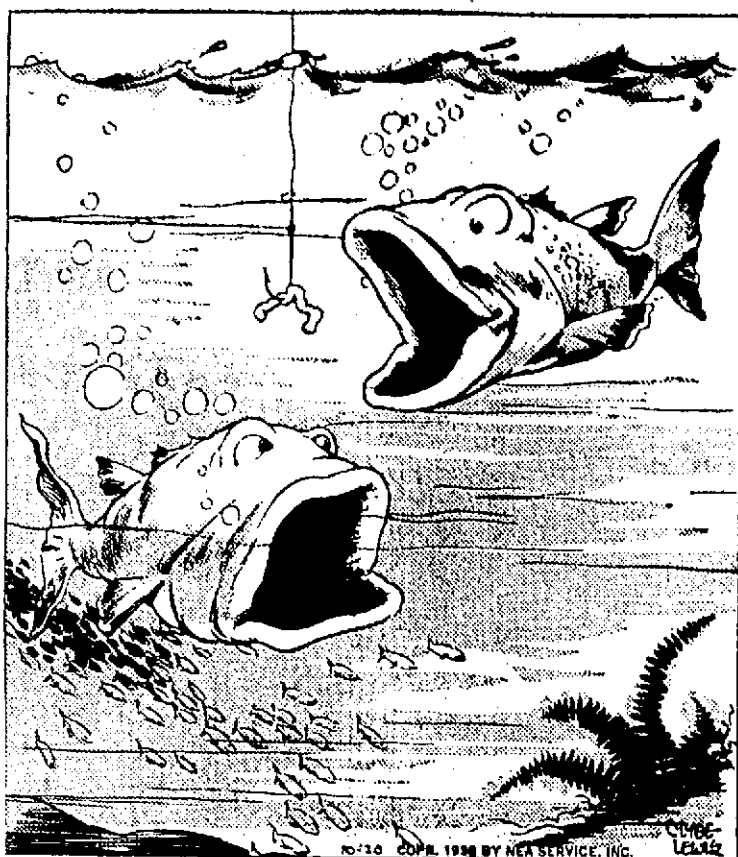

Schools of the state would be divided into A and B divisions as in track, and separate tournaments would be held in each district. Winners would enter separate state tournaments, with the winners meeting for the state championship.

These tournaments would not be held at the same place, but would be held on the same days. B schools would be allowed to play in the higher tournament if they desired but A schools could not participate in a Class B tournament.

Teams would not be allowed to play more than two games each week before January 1, nor more than five games a week after that date. Teams would not be allowed to play more than one game a day, except in the state and district tournaments.

Schools would not be allowed to play inter-school football games earlier than the Friday following the formal opening of school and no member school would be permitted to play inter-school football games on Sunday.

How to See Football

Offside
By JERRY BRONFIELD
NEA Service Sports Writer

Offside play is the most prevalent infraction of football rules, which is easily understood because of the tension under which two opposing lines work.

In their eagerness to get the jump on the opposition players are apt to make a movement across the one-yard neutral zone between the two lines before the ball is snapped, and the ensuing penalty is five yards.

Because they are more on edge than the opposition, defending linemen are more likely to be guilty than the offensive forwards.

Offensive players are poised, know where the play is going and know what they must do. The defensive linemen doesn't know how the play will develop, consequently is under a greater strain.

A lineman doesn't necessarily have to come in contact with an opposing player to draw an offensive penalty. The ruling may be placed in effect as long as any part of his body crosses into the neutral zone before the ball is snapped.

The spectator will notice that a player might make a movement across the line, but scramble back onto his own side before the ball is snapped. If he succeeds there is no penalty.

Come offensive centers are adept at making false motions over the ball to lure the defense offside, but if caught, the penalty is five yards.

The two latter regulations were adopted by the Arkansas High School Conference last year.

Racing Saturday at Louisiana Fair

Many Prominent Riders Scheduled to Appear at Shreveport Event

SHREVEPORT, La.—That there will be an abundance of riding material available when the State Jockey Club inaugurates its race meeting Saturday afternoon is quite certain.

Some of the nation's most prominent reimenmen are slated to sport the silks during the autumn season, judging from the number of applicants for jockey licenses which have been received by officials of the State Jockey club.

Johnny Conroy, Chicago youngster, who was a runner-up for the riding honors at the recent Fairmont park meeting, is among the early arrivals. Several substantial offers have been rejected by C. O. Grieves, contract employer of the Windy City lad, for the papers he holds.

However, Conroy should be furnished some stern competition from the younger set of pilots such as Jose Alfonso, Jack Taylor, Pete Castanova, Don Erb and a few others, while the more seasoned jockeys include Jimmy Dillea, George Gleason, J. W. Frye, George Miller, Al Gaitner, Pedro Martinez, O. Hernandez and Ted King.

Behind the Scenes in Washington By Rodney Dutcher

WASHINGTON—The Roosevelt appeal for C. I. O.-R. F. of L. peace hasn't brought it a bit nearer.

There just isn't any peace in sight or even in the wind.

The chief reason is that no one can devise a formula by which the two groups can reunite without giving one or the other an upper hand. A. F. of L. leaders would have ever reason to expect an end to their control if they took C. I. O.'s millions in on an equal voting footing. C. I. O. leaders are sure many of their unions would be raided and carved up if they joined A. F. of L. on any other basis.

Neither side, in the words of one labor leader, wants to "put its head on the chopping block."

John L. Lewis stands on the assertion that C. I. O. would move into the A. F. of L. "tomorrow" if each C. I. O. unit were promised a charter similar to those of other A. F. of L. unions, with the further provision that jurisdictional disputes be settled by the unions involved.

Unlikelihood of an early merger doesn't mean there's no chance of a cessation of name-calling and warfare between the two groups, as suggested by Mr. Roosevelt. But events at the A. F. of L. convention indicate there's no immediate prospect of that.

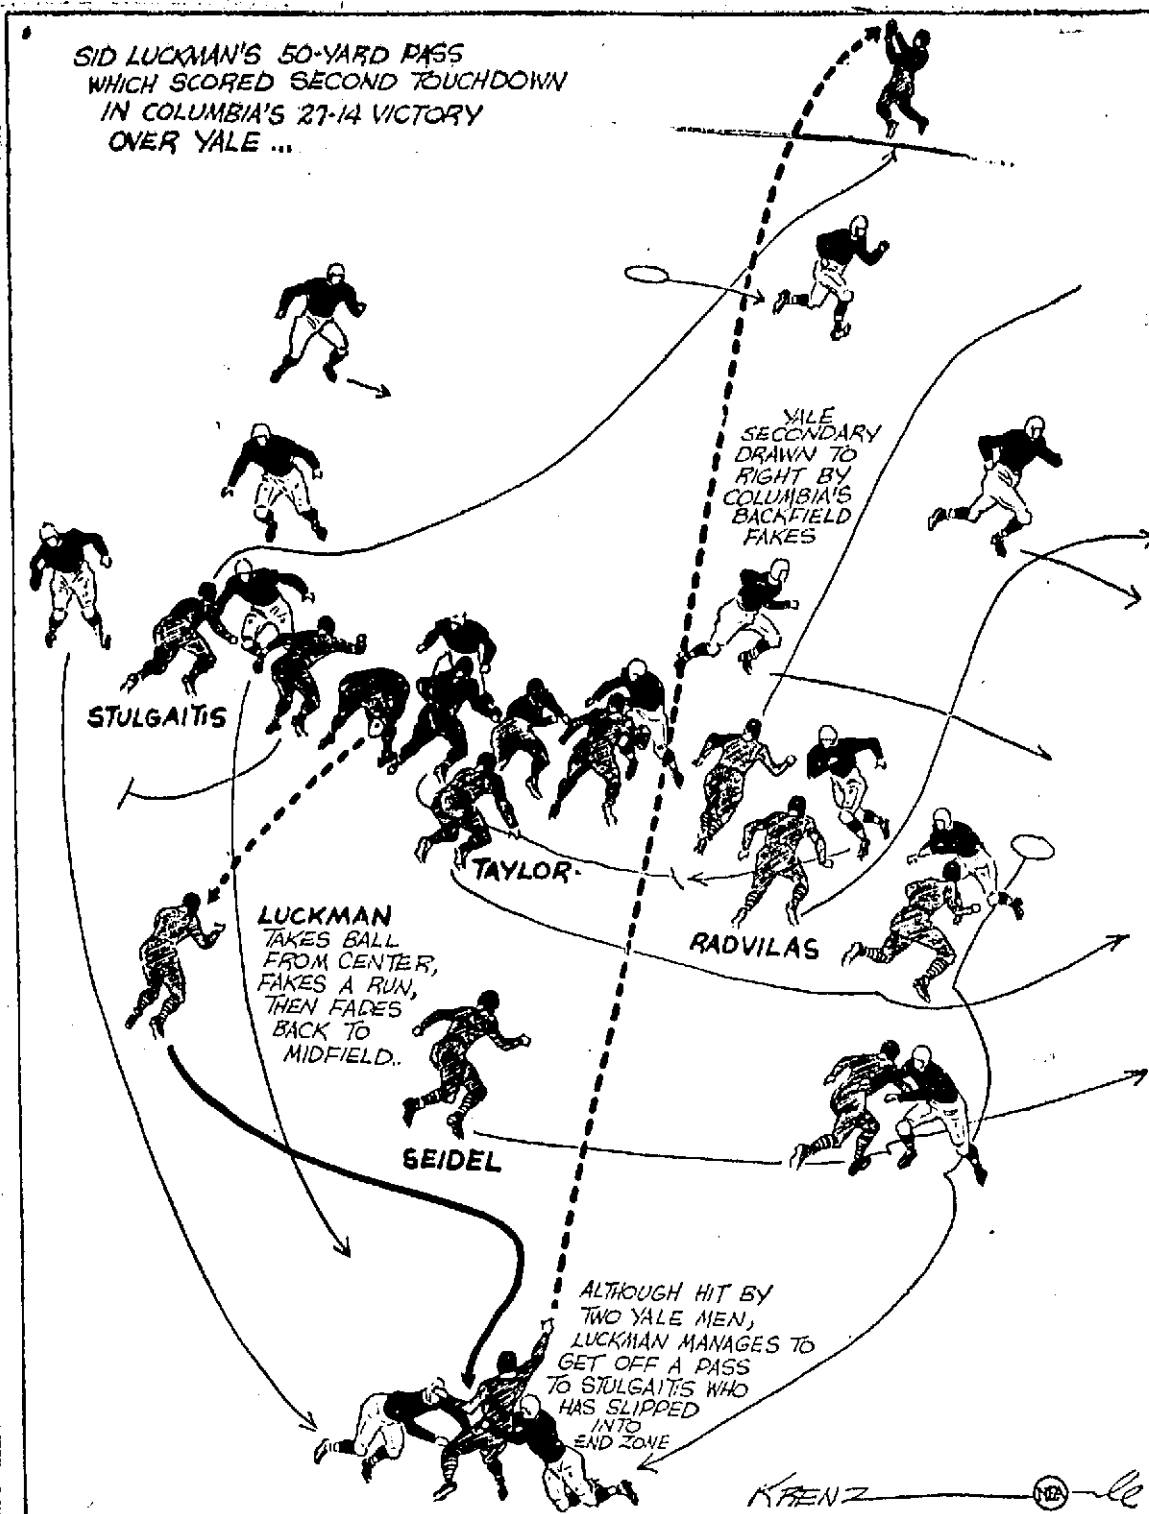

A Good Example
Labor's chief victory in recent months has been the success of Sidney Hillman, widely known as "labor's statesman" long before C. I. O. days, and Philip Murray in reconciling the battling factions of the United Automobile Workers. That struggle threatened to damage C. I. O. even more than it has been hurt by the depression and might easily have gobbled up the C. I. O. convention scheduled for Pittsburgh November 14.

One important expected result is elimination of both Lovestone Communists behind President Homer Martin and Stalin Communists, who worked with the group of suspended officials now reinstated, from the union's policy making councils.

When C. I. O. Vice Chairman Hillman and Murray went to Detroit few believed the break between Lewis and Martin over U. A. W. peace terms could be healed. They were threatened with physical violence and gunplay. Arguing with individuals one at a time and supported by rank and file union members interested in union preservation rather than leaders' squabbles, they finally convinced a majority of Martin's board. Martin, isolated, gave over control of the dispute to Murray and Hillman. Later a united board has been referring all

SID LUCKMAN'S 50-YARD PASS WHICH SCORED SECOND TOUCHDOWN IN COLUMBIA'S 27-14 VICTORY OVER YALE ...

By ART KRENZ
NEA Service Sports Writer

Veteran observers of football in the Yale Bowl say that Sid Luckman's 50-yard touchdown throw was the greatest pass play ever witnessed in the Eli stadium, as the Lions triumphed over the Blue, 27-14.

On fourth down with six to go Luckman, in the tailback position, took the ball from center, faked a run, to the right and then faded back to midfield. Siedel checked Yale's defensive right end and continued on into the flat territory. Taylor and the Columbia right end went down and out, and the Yale secondary, drawn over by the backfield fakes and the maneuvering into the flat, failed to notice Stulgaitis, Columbia left end, sneaking down into the end zone. Luckman dropped back to the 50-yard line, and there, although hit by two Yale tacklers, managed to squirm free just long enough to unleash his pass, the ball sailing down to Stulgaitis, who took it for the score.

BRIGHTEST OF GOLDEN BEARS

By CAROL DAY

This clever design, Pattern 8329, adapts the crisp, tiny-waisted charm of Gay Nineties lines to the runabout needs of fall, 1938, and in a very practical manner.

The snug, basque-like bodice, buttoned and pointed in the front like those our mothers wore, is tailored enough for business and shopping. You can wear it with your suit. The straight skirt, with inverted pleats to make it comfortable for walking, may also be worn with other blouses.

For this use thin wool, challis, taffeta, but crepe and the silk, with pique or satin to trim the sleeves and neckline. Pattern 8329 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. With long sleeves, size 14 requires 2 yards of 39 inch material for the blouse; with short sleeves, 1 1/2 yards. Size 14 takes 2 yards of 39-inch material for the skirt. Plus 3-8 yard contrasting 55 or 39 inch material to trim.

The new Fall and Winter Pattern Book, 32 pages of attractive designs for every size and every occasion, is now ready. Photographs show dresses made from these patterns being worn; a feature you will enjoy. Like the charming designs in this new book help you in your sewing. One pattern and the new Fall and Winter Pattern Book—25 cents. Pattern or book alone—15 cents.
